

Leaf exudate from cut petiole or leafy twig

When freshly cut or broken, petioles or young leafy twigs from living plants of certain species will produce exudates such as latex, sap or gum. Exudates may be coloured or clear.

Copyright © CSIRO 2020, all rights reserved.

Web edition hosted at <https://apps.lucidcentral.org/rainforest>